About Emeritus Prof Datuk Dr Hj Shad Saleem Faruqi

Emeritus Prof Datuk Dr Hj Shad Saleem Faruqi is Holder of the Tunku Abdul Rahman Chair at the Faculty of Law, University of Malaya, and a Fellow of the Academy of Sciences Malaysia.

Prior to his assignment at the University of Malaya, he was an Emeritus Professor of Law at Universiti Teknologi MARA (“UiTM”) where he served in various capacities: Head of the Diploma in Law programme (1979–1984), Assistant Rector (1996–1999), Assistant Vice-Chancellor (1999–2001), and Legal Advisor (1996–2006, 2010–2016). UiTM honoured him with an Emeritus Professorship in 2003. From 1984 to 1987, he was an Associate Professor at the International Islamic University Malaysia (on secondment from UiTM).

He is the author of 10 books, including Document of Destiny: The Constitution of the Federation of Malaysia; Reflections on Life and the Law; and Media Law & Regulations in Malaysia. In four decades in the law, he has authored more than 500 articles in journals, periodicals and newspapers. He has done many national and international consultancies including the drafting of the Constitution of the Republic of Maldives in 1992.

About the Topic

A crucial element in a democracy is that the Judiciary must be seen to be impartial and independent from all external and other pressures. When this is achieved, the public and those who appear before these judges can have confidence that judicial decisions will be fair and in accordance with the laws of the nation. Freedom from improper influence means that when judges carry out their judicial functions, there should not be improper pressure — from the Executive or Legislature, or by individual litigants, pressure groups, the media, other judges, or even self-interest — that could taint the decisions that are made. How can this be achieved and, when the independence of the Judiciary may be at risk, what should be done to ensure that judges discharge their constitutional responsibility by providing fair and impartial justice?

Thank you.
