This issue of Legal Craft and Such (“LCAS”) – the e-magazine created to provide its readers a platform that carries articles on developments in Malaysian law and/or pertinent socio-political, cultural, and economic issues – is its final.

LCAS will be replaced by an online version of Praxis, the chronicle of the Malaysian Bar. Praxis aims to capture contemporary challenges facing law practitioners in Malaysia, as well as their achievements, and to maintain a platform for Members to keep abreast of developments and topics of interest to the legal profession and industry.

The following articles are featured in this final issue of LCAS:

- “Mental Health: Ada Apa dengan Gender”;
- “The Potential Risks of Surrogacy Arrangements in Malaysia”;
- “Freedom of Religion and Gender Equality: And the Twain Shall Meet”;
- “Turning the Tables on Perpetrators of Sexual Harrasment”.

Getting Started

LCAS is a joint project between the CPD Department and Thomson Reuters, and is hosted on ProView, a mobile and desktop reading platform designed for those who read on the go.

- Click here for a complimentary subscription to LCAS. After completing the registration process, you will receive a confirmation email from Thomson Reuters Customer Service that contains your unique registration key, and instructions on how to set up your ProView \(OnePass\) account. Please allow up to 48 hours for your registration to be processed.

Download the ProView app on your preferred device, such as an Android tablet or an iPad, or use this link to access ProView on your desktop or laptop. You can access ProView and its content using your OnePass account. Future issues of LCAS will appear in your library once they have been uploaded.
