

WHEN TO GO ON YOUR OWN — ARE YOU READY TO START YOUR OWN PRACTICE?

Thinking about starting your own practice? Going out on your own is a career decision that requires careful consideration, planning and preparation. This episode will help Members understand the realities of setting up a practice and assess whether they are ready to take the next step.

In this episode, we explore what to consider before establishing your own firm, including:

- The key challenges of starting out on your own;
- Key considerations when setting up a firm;
- The importance of planning; and
- Practical steps for getting started.

Join our host, Shermaljit Singh, member of the Bar Council Risk Management and ELEVATE Committee and guest, Jamie Wong, advocate and solicitor, as they share practical advice and insights for lawyers considering starting their own practice.

Listen to the MyBar Risk Management Podcast — available on YouTube, Spotify and Apple Podcasts.

Catch the full episode now!

An initiative by the Malaysian Bar, brought to you by the Bar Council Risk Management and ELEVATE Committee

The MyBar Risk Management Podcast was launched on 21 June 2025 as an initiative of the Bar Council Risk Management and ELEVATE Committee to provide Members of the Bar with practical and accessible information on risk management. Through this initiative, the Committee seeks to equip Members with greater awareness and practical guidance to manage risks effectively in their daily practice.

Organised by: Bar Council Risk Management and ELEVATE Committee
For enquiries, please contact:
Haziq Radhwan (03-2050 2001; pirm@malaysianbar.org.my)

Issued by: R Jayabalan and Arthur Wang, Co-Chairpersons, Bar Council Risk Management and ELEVATE Committee