The Bar Council Intellectual Property Committee is organising a "Seminar on Intellectual Property". This seminar offers a comprehensive introduction to intellectual property ("IP") and its enforcement through litigation. Participants will learn about different types of IP, including patents, trademarks, copyrights, and industrial designs. The seminar will also cover the basics of protecting IP rights and the legal processes involved in enforcing those rights through litigation. Through this seminar, it is hoped that participants will gain insights into common challenges in IP enforcement and how businesses can safeguard their innovations.
